FRANCIS LYNDE'S

New Novel

THE KING OF ARCADIA

Illustrated. $1.50

IN the Western land of ranches and cowboys and railroad builders and irrigation engineering, the King of Arcadia, an elderly Kentuckian, establishes an Aladdin's castle of luxury in an oasis that he makes to blossom as a rose. A vast irrigation scheme, promoted by Eastern capitalists, involves the destruction of this garden. In the feud that results the company's engineer, the daughter of the king, a playwright, an overseer, and the others are involved in a series of exciting and ingenious adventures that work out to a thrilling conclusion. A stirring romantic story full of adventure and surprise.

RENÉ BAZIN'S

New Novel

"THIS, MY SON"

$1.25

THE powerful and moving story of a Breton farmer and his sons and daughters, among whom the struggle between the desire for a wider, newer life and the traditional claim of the farm develops into a drama of great and profound beauty. The best of the novels by the author of "The Nun."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

Bill Truetell

A New Story of Theatrical Life

CLEVER, amusing and above all—real. Truetell is a manager of the old school, and to theatrical people "Bill Truetell" will be like a page from the past. But even keener will be the interest of those who know the stage only from "in front," for the book affords a glimpse of a life that is always mysterious and fascinating to the rest of us who only look on.

Story-Life of Lincoln

Here are a few signatures of letters from Prominent Men, Senators, Authors, Governors, Generals, Educators and Clergymen, from the multitude of letters already received about The Story-Life of Lincoln

Thousands are Praising

"Brings us nearer Lincoln than any book ever published." "It is the real life of Lincoln." "This is his true heart life." "We found our fifteen-year-old son reading it at 3 A. M."

"Thorough, earnest, painstaking." "I'm a busy man working hard in my profession, but I sat up nearly all night to read it."

"Our little town has gone wild over The Story-Life of Lincoln. Families divide up. Those who can, read it days, that the rest may have it at night."

A letter from the mountains of N. H. says, "We are reading it aloud by the fireside evenings." And from the city of Seattle, "Father reads it aloud to us all every night."

From East and West, North and South, the same words come in: "We had heard so much about it we were afraid we expected too much—but it proves still better than we expected."

"It is the most fascinating book I ever read."

"It is the best example of the fact that Truth is stranger than fiction."

The Book Itself

Never has a biography made such a sensation as this historical - educational - earnest-pathetic-merry Story-Life of Lincoln. Within three months after its appearance it has raised a chorus of spontaneous praise—as marking "a new era in fascinating biography." This is because it gives the best 500 stories from 100 Lincoln authors, friends and relatives, and all fitted together into a complete, connected biography—the life-story—in which you can see the twinkle of Lincoln's deep, blue-gray eyes and hear the throbbings of his great heart. The stories combine to form a vivid panorama of Lincoln's life and the historic scenes of the Civil War. It has been characterized as the "very vitascope of history."

The Story-Life of Lincoln is the largest and finest book ever sold for the price. It contains over 500 stories, 700 pages, 150 illustrations (some never previously published), printed on extra high surface paper, beautifully bound.

Three Books Out Feb. 20th That Are Going to Be Talked About This Spring

THE Journal of a Neglected Wife

[By MABEL HERBERT URNER

Quite the most remarkable psychological document in the form of fiction published in a decade. Magazine readers are familiar with Mrs. Urner's work, but they have little expected a novel of such power as this, wonderful in its simplicity, terrible in its pathos. A book for every wife—and every husband, as perfect a little fragment out of the heart of life as has been written in many a day.

The title tells the story; but—read it.

Improper Prue
By GLORIA MANNING

A bright and breezy story detailing the social adventures of a heroine—really improper? Well, that you'll have to read and find out—but at any rate most adorably bewitching.

The Roosevelt That I Know

And Recollections of Some Great American Fighting Men

By MIKE DONOVAN

"Mike" Donovan, formerly middle-weight champion of the United States, for many years instructor in boxing and general sporting mentor of the New York Athletic Club, and "boxer by appointment" to the President, reveals in this book of reminiscences a hitherto little known but very human side of Roosevelt the Man.

What is Your Vote on DREAMING RIVER?

NOES

A Rochester Bookseller:—

"I was unable to find the slightest reason why the dear public should be asked to read such a commonplace story which might just as well have been told in two or three pages."

A Bookseller's Literary Adviser:—

"'Dreaming River,' A Love Idyl of the Prairie, by Barr Moses, lies open before me. It gives me Colitis."

"Pharaoh's daughter is reputed to have found Moses 1st hidden in the rushes of the Nile. It would be gratifying to know where Stokes found his Moses, and why in heaven's name he did not leave him in the hole in which he was concealed."

"If this atrocity is a 'love idyl,' and love hymeneal or otherwise was conditioned on reading it, much as I am devoted to the sex that gives zest to life I would renounce it forever and hie me to a monastery."

"The great desert that sweeps across Equatorial Africa has an occasional oasis to relieve its dreary wastes; here is the same vast desert, but where oh where is an oasis to find shelter in?"

AYES

The Kansas City Star:—

"A notable book for the discriminating reader. Fresh, fine, original. . . . Its charms will engage the favor of an appreciative legion."

The Cincinnati Enquirer:—

"Most delightfully fresh and breezy and unconventional little romance we have met with in many days."

The St. Paul Despatch:—

"Succeeds where most books fail. . . . Even better than the book one likes the author."

The Portland Oregonian:—

"A novel which for real poetry, charming beauty of sentiment, and that temperament midway between the smile and the tear, recalls the delicate grace and polished literary touch of Nathaniel Hawthorne. . . .

"A rare literary gem, a rose by the wayside, a star seen from a mountain height. . . .

"Dorothy imperiously commands somewhat the same color and canvas as does Lady Babbie in 'The Little Minister.' Dorothy! You are a new classic."

SECOND EDITION NOW ON PRESS

The dispute is on. People are talking about "Dreaming River" and buying it. It is a good value dollar novel.

The New Macmillan Novels

Miss Rina Ramsay's brilliant novel The Straw

Cloth, $1.50

Alive with the swing and go of a fox-hunting set, with the tang of open-air living and the zest of the chase. The suspense of its main complication holds to the end—and there is something of the grim suggestion of what the chase means to the fox—just enough of a mingling of tragic shadows with the laughter to make the book interesting,—even keenly exciting. Mr. STEPHEN FISKE says: "There has been no such book in many a year. Open it and you can feel the cool air and smell the hedgerows. There are lots of love in it, and of mystery, and of detective work that would baffle Sherlock Holmes, and of good, jolly fun. . . . Taken all in all, I consider 'The Straw' the cleverest and most readable book of the season."

Mr. Eden Phillpotts's new novel The Three Brothers

Cloth, $1.50

By the author of Children of the Mist, The Secret Woman, etc. By far the best novel its author has yet written. His love for Devon and his appreciation of the dalesmen's dry humor is as keen as ever, but there seems to have entered into the maturity of his strength a welcome mellowing of spirit, a genial touch that is delightful.

Mr. H. Fielding Hall's new novel One Immortality

Cloth, $1.50

Everyone who has read Mr. Hall's The Soul of a People has felt the charm of his clear, finished style, as if what he has to say had been brought to perfection patiently, quietly with a certain sense of repose which is distinctly a product of the East. His theory of marriage is as interesting as his prose is exquisite.

Mr. Algernon Blackwood's new book Jimbo

A Fantasy

An unusual book of so rare a type that it is difficult to describe—too beautiful to be compared to anything less imaginative—suggestive of a fine implied teaching of courage, of truth, and of the need of care when one ventures into the uncharted country of a child's mind.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN COMPANY cannot have their beautiful edition of "The Ancestry of Abraham Lincoln," by J. Henry Lea and J. R. Hutchinson, ready till next week. It is limited to 1000 copies, illustrated in photogravure, showing old prints of scenes and buildings connected with the Lincoln family.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish February 27 Francis Lynde's new novel, "The King of Arcadia," the story of an elderly Kentuckian who has established an Aladdin's castle of luxury in the western land of ranches and cowboys which a vast irrigation scheme promoted by Eastern capitalists threatens to destroy. The resulting feud makes the ingenious story. René Bazin's "This My Son," a powerful Breton story, will also be ready on the same day.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have just ready "New Ideals in Healing," by Ray Stanard Baker, which gives a clear, impartial account of the "Emmanuel Movement" and similar activities that all the world is now studying; and "Janet and Her Dear Phebe," by Clarissa Dixon, a revelation of intense love between two natural, healthy little girls. A most amusing instance of the "deadly parallel" is shown in the advertisement of this house in this issue, where in parallel columns appear the criticisms pro and con of "The Dreaming River," that unique little story of only three characters by Barr Moses, already in its second edition in three weeks' time.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. publish this week "Self Help for Nervous Women," Dr. John K. Mitchell's new book. Familiar talks on economy in nervous expenditure are presented by the author. Dr. Mitchell is well fitted for the giving of such advice not only from long experience, but through association for twenty-five years in practice with his father, Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, the most distinguished of American neurologists. The same publishers also brought out this week "Elementary Agricultural Chemistry," by Herbert Ingle, and a new second revised edition of Jensen's "Milk Hygiene," translated and amplified by Leonard Pearson, of the University of Pennsylvania.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have ready two contrasting books of English life—"The Straw," by Rina Ramsay, a spirited story of the English fox-hunting set, and Eden Philpotts's "The Three Brothers," describing in his well-seasoned style the Devon he knows so well. Next week will bring "Jimbo: a Fantasy," Algernon Blackwood's story of a child, an appreciative portrayal of the child mind in its imaginativeness and of the means of entry into this hidden realm. Later on the house will publish "Socialism in Theory and Practice," by Maurice Hillquit; "The Preacher: His Person, Message and Method," by Professor Arthur S. Hoyt; "Toward Social Reform," by Canon and Mrs. S. A. Barnett; and Frank P. Grayes's "History of Education Before the Middle Ages."

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY have just issued the first two volumes of Arthur Kingsley Porter's monumental work on "Medieval Architecture," which in its final form will probably include seven volumes. The two volumes issued are complete units in the work. They embrace the "Origins of Medieval Architecture" and the "Developments in Normandy and the Ile de France." The bibliography of their subjects embraces 2500 separate entries, in itself a marvellous contribution to the study of a single art. The author has worked seven years on these two volumes, and is now in Italy engaged in further work for his stupendous undertaking. The publishers may well be proud of securing this valuable work, and have brought it out truly representative of the highest type of American bookmaking.

Bryant, Margaret. Christopher Hibbault: roadmaker. N. Y., Duffield & Co., 1909. 382 p. 12°, cl., †$1.50.

Hero of story is discovered at age of ten in a workhouse, where his mother who had left her husband, a wealthy ironmaster, has come to die. The hero thrives and his one ambition is to make high-roads across country, roads easy to travel on which will last. He becomes an engineer; later refuses his father's wealth. Both father and father's cousin vie with each other to gain possession of this independent young engineer.

Dr. Burgess is Dean of the Faculty of Political Science in Columbia University; was first Roosevelt professor in the University of Berlin; and president of the Germanistic Society of America. He has known Germany for forty years, having studied in many of its universities and later taught in them under the German government. He has personally known the German Emperor for years. He says: "It has never been my fortune to come in contact with a man of keener intellect, wider information, warmer heart, larger ideals, sincerer courtesy, truer deference for the opinions of others and stronger loyalty to the interests of general civilization than the German Emperor."

A tale of love and lawlessness of the English seventeenth century days of Charles II., by the author of "Bertrana of Brittany." Mad Barbara is the daughter of a woman whose lover, a courtly man of the world, a friend of the family, has murdered Barbara's father. Barbara, through a series of suspicious incidents, obtains a clue to the murderer. A true and tender romance springs up between Barbara and the murderer's son, a soldierly fellow, in strong contrast with his elegant and foppish father.

A counterfeiter and murderer who poses as a French baron of great wealth rents an old English castle in a retired spot in England, surrounds himself with a large retinue of servants of both sexes, who are all criminals, and ingeniously carries on his trade of making bogus securities. One of his gang murders the vicar of the little church from fear of being found out, and manages to have the crime credited to the vicar's assistant, a worthy young man, who for a long time is under a cloud. The finding of an agate button and a clever detective's work exposes the Baron's true character. The story is elaborate and intricate and carries the reader's interest throughout.

The chief characteristic of this work is that it is a dictionary of the Bible and not a volume of speculations about the Bible. It is not in any sense a composite book secured by adaptation from other publications, but contains first-hand material especially written for it. It is a work prepared by Bible experts of both continents in such a way that it keeps in touch with the problems of to-day. It has been prepared from the standpoint of reverent criticism and evangelical faith, and aims to present in convenient form the facts found in the Scriptures, including a treatment of history contemporary with Israel.

Knapp, Margaret L. But still a man. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1909. c. 376 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The author takes her title from a line of Pope—"A minister—but still a man." Not only has the hero to struggle with his physical appearance, being short and stout, and somewhat lacking in dignity in taking possession of his first parish, but with the many problems presented by the ordinary American village parish, in which no two persons agree on any one matter. His defects and victories are about equal, his horizon gradually widening with time, until he comes to the understanding that the one thing needful is not wisdom, or even righteousness, but love.

Author treats of enemy property under three classes, 1, hostile state property on land; 2, hostile private property on land; 3, hostile property (public and private) at sea. A belligerent may seize or destroy such property under the following circumstances, 1, public property of the enemy, if found within a belligerent's own territory or if it can be carried off to it; 2, private property of enemy subjects on land if directly useful to either belligerent; 3, public and private property of the enemy at sea, except when covered by a neutral flag. Upon this basis the actual practice of states, proposed changes, and the directions in which improvements must be effected are considered.

The complete ruin of a distinguished English family—the Allertons—through the extravagance of its head, a man of charming personality but no conscience, ushers in a bright story of English high life. Lucy Allerton has been a mother to her youngest brother, and tries to keep him from following in the footsteps of their father, who has spent their fortunes as well as his own. She is loved by "the explorer," a rich man with no claims upon him, who finds his greatest joy in fighting the horrors of East Africa, especially the notorious slave trade. Her father commits a crime to obtain money and is sent to prison. Her brother accompanies the explorer to Africa, where he is the centre of a disgraceful episode, which breaks his sister's engagement with the explorer. An English barrister and an American widow make witty dialogue throughout. By the author of "Jack Straw," "Lady Frederick," and other comedies.

Y., Baker & Taylor Co., 1909. c. '08. 18+482; 11+499 p. il. pls. plans, fold. plans, Q. buckram, $15, boxed.

The fascinating field of the critical study of medieval architecture has been closed to many who have been unable to devote the time and energy necessary to acquire the technical training indispensable to the understanding of archaeological works. It is the aim of the present work to minimize the difficulties of this preparation; to serve as an introduction not only to the medieval buildings themselves, but to the vast literature that has grown up about them; to put the reader who has had little special training in a position to share the delights of the connoisseur. The first volume tells the story of the lingering death of classic art in the early Christian and Byzantine periods, and of the birth of the new medieval spirit among the Carolingians and Lombards and, besides being an exhaustive and critical study of the origins of Gothic and Romanesque, makes familiar to the reader the underlying principles, constructions, and technical peculiarities of the later styles. The text is entirely narrative; all questions of date and the descriptions of individual buildings are relegated to the list of monuments which follows each chapter. The second volume treats of the evolution of the Gothic style and the passing away of medieval into the new era of the Renaissance. These volumes have bibliographies of 2500 entries. The third volume, now in preparation, will treat of the Saxon, Norman, Early English, Geometric, Flowing, and Perpendicular styles of England in a similar spirit.

A young man of twenty-five, with two millions at his command and no family to leave it to, is filled with a desire to see London at its worst, hoping to find worthy objects for his wealth. In an adventure in Soho late at night an old French lady that he befriends presents him with a ring given her in years past by an Indian Rajah, by which he can at any moment call the devil to his aid. The next evening he is tempted to try the ring's power and calls loudly, "Slave of the ring, appear!" His Satanic Majesty without loss of time arrives. He is a person of distinguished appearance in evening dress. Henceforth for many nights he is the young man's guide. The scenes of vice and poverty they visit are described in a dozen stories.

While avowedly an argument against vivisection, supported by absolutely reliable information, which the author was at great pains to secure, the book is in the form of fiction, having three young men characters—medical students, whose attitudes toward vivisection are fully stated. The book chiefly describes the career of one of them, Sidney Gale, an enthusiastic believer in orthodox methods, who is brought into the ranks of the anti-vivisectionists, sacrificing fame and success to conviction through his own cruel experiences. In an appendix of some length the author gives citations from various medical journals corroborating the main facts and statements of the novel.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 13, 1909.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

IMPORTING COPYRIGHT ENGLISH BOOKS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Can you tell me, through the pages of the WEEKLY, whether or not it is contrary to the United States copyright law to import the copyright English edition of works which are copyright in this country also? If it is contrary to law, what is the penalty for violation, and are books thus imported subject to seizure?

Certain American editions of English authors (as, for instance, Swinburne,) are greatly inferior to the English editions. If my customer prefers the English copyright edition, and is willing to pay the government a tax of 25 per cent. ad valorem for the privilege of having the English edition, am I not entitled to import it for him?

Copyright law, as I understand it, is in existence to protect the property rights of authors. Whether I buy the authorized American edition of Swinburne, or import the authorized English edition, there is no infringement on the author's rights; in either case he receives his royalty on the sale. Is there, then, any violation of the copyright law?

This point is not specifically covered in the statutes relating to copyright, or in any copyright rulings, so far as I can discover. By answering my questions through the pages of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, I am sure you will confer a favor on a large number of your readers. Yours very truly,

A BOOKSELLER.

The provisions of the Copyright Statutes in regard to importation of copyright books are very explicit. The Act of March 3, 1891, which extended copyright to the productions of foreign authors, did so with the requirement that in order to secure such protection the book "shall be printed from type set within the limits of the United States, or from plates made therefrom."

The same statute enacted further that "during the existence of such copyright the importation into the United States of any book, . . . so copyrighted, or any edition or editions thereof, or any plates of the same not made from type set, . . . within the limits of the United States, shall be, and it is hereby, prohibited."

To this general prohibition of importation, however, there are certain specific exceptions, as follows:

(1) "In the case of persons purchasing for use and not for sale, who import subject to the duty thereon, not more than two copies of such book at any one time."

(2) "Books, . . . which shall have been printed and bound or manufactured more than twenty years at the date of importation."

(3) "Books and pamphlets printed exclusively in languages other than English; also books and music, in raised print, used exclusively by the blind."

(4) "Books, . . . imported by authority or for use of the United States or for the use of the Library of Congress."

(5) "Books, . . . specially imported, not more than two copies in any one invoice, in good faith, for the use of any society incorporated or established for educational, philosophical, literary, or religious purposes, or for the encouragement of the fine arts, or for the use or by order of any college, academy, school, or seminary of learning in the United States, subject to such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe."

NOTE.—This is supposed to cover importation in behalf of any public library.

(6) "Books, or libraries, or parts of libraries, and other household effects of persons or families from foreign countries, if actually used abroad by them not less than one year, and not intended for any other person or persons, nor for sale."

SALE OF TISSOT BIBLES.

THE sale on February 6 of Tissot Bibles at the Fifth Avenue Art Galleries, attracted a large number of bidders and buyers. The total amount realized on the collection of twelve sets was $7152. Gabriel Weiss paid $1518 for a memorial edition originally published in French.

THE CASE OF TEXAS VS. THE AMERICAN BOOK COMPANY.

VARIOUS conflicting despatches have been published in the New York papers concerning the outcome of the suit brought against the American Book Company by the State of Texas, under the anti-trust statutes of that State. The following summary contains the essential facts of the case and the decision reached.

In February, 1908, the State Text-Book Board of Texas adopted text-books in the various branches for a term of five years. To the American Book Company were awarded Maury's New Elements of Geography, Maury's New Complete Geography, and the Maury-Simonds Physical Geography.

Notwithstanding the fact that the American Book Company had made the same affidavit as to its organization and independence of all other companies that had been made by other competing concerns, the Governor refused to sign the contract for its books that had been adopted, and secured the passage of a resolution by the Board asking the Attorney-General to investigate and report "whether the American Book Company be a trust."

The company, by telegram and by letter, invited the fullest investigation and proffered its records, books of account and all information to further the purposes of the investigation.

After some three weeks of search and inquiry in New York the Attorney-General reported that the company should be excluded and subsequently suit was brought by the State based upon this opinion.

Then followed a more searching investigation and the taking of testimony in New York, covering a period of several weeks. Certain stipulations which set forth the history and organization of the company since its incorporation in New Jersey, in 1890, and touching the present company, were agreed upon, and the case was set for trial February 1, 1909.

On that date both parties appeared in court at Austin and announced their readiness to proceed. The Attorney-General had not only brought suit for $7500 against the present American Book Company of New York, which began business January 1, 1908, but against the American Book Company of New Jersey, already dissolved, which was the predecessor of the present company, and sought also to join Mr. Ambrose, the president of the company, and other stockholders as co-defendants of the New Jersey company, to recover penalties aggregating $3,070,350.

After several days spent in arguing the legal points involved, the State, on February 4, asked that the work of selecting a jury be halted as a compromise was imminent. An agreement was subsequently reached by the litigants, and was approved and ratified and made the judgment of the court in the case.

In the agreement reached it was admitted in writing by the State that the conditions alleged to have been brought about by the acts of the New Jersey company had been corrected, and that the New York company, having no contract with the State, and doing only an interstate business therein, had withdrawn its permit to maintain a place of business in Texas.

A decree was entered for the recovery of the sum of $15,000 from the New Jersey Company, and the case against the New York Company and the other defendants was dismissed, thus acquitting the New York Company of all trust charges. Counsel advised the acceptance of the compromise offered rather than to prolong indefinitely the litigation with its attendant expenses.

The effect of this agreement and judgment is that it removes and precludes all question as to the legality of the organization and operations of the American Book Company of New York, which is the only present existing Company. It may do an interstate commerce business in Texas, as it does in other States, without obstacle or restriction, and should the company at any time desire to open an office and conduct a business in Texas, it may apply for and secure a permit to do so the same as any other corporation.

This is a very valuable decision for the American Book Company. For clearly if the State of Texas, which has the most far-reaching, drastic and energetically enforced anti-trust laws of any State in the Union, after thorough investigation and trial acquits the American Book Company of all such charges, there can be no question in other States as to the legality of its organization.

WHAT CHILDREN IN NEW YORK SCHOOLS READ.

A YEAR ago the pupils of the grammar grades in the schools of New York City were asked by the Board of Education to write short reviews of their favorite books in the class library, and these reviews numbering several thousand, written without any knowledge on the pupil's part of the use to be made of their opinions, were collected and tabulated in the bureau of libraries and the following list was made in order of popularity:

1. Little Women (Alcott).
2. Sara Crewe (Burnett).
3. Uncle Tom's Cabin (Stowe).
4. Black Beauty (Sewell).
5. Birds' Christmas Carol (Wiggin).
6. Robinson Crusoe (De Foe).
7. Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm (Wiggin).
8. Old Fashioned Girl (Alcott).
9. Grimm's Fairy Tales.
10. Evangeline (Longfellow).
11. Alice in Wonderland (Carroll).
12. Little Lord Fauntleroy (Burnett).
13. Little Men (Alcott).
14. Revolutionary Maid (Blanchard).
15. Five Little Peppers (Sidney).
16. John Halifax (Mulock).
17. Bow of Orange Ribbon (Barr).
18. Under the Lilacs (Alcott).
19. David Copperfield (Dickens).
20. Hope Benham (Perry).
21. Trinity Bells (Barr).
22. Eight Cousins (Alcott).

23. For the Honor of the School (Barbour).
24. Girl of '76 (Blanchard).
25. Ivanhoe (Scott).
26. Little Lame Prince (Mulock).
27. Oliver Twist (Dickens).
28. Ramona (Jackson).
29. Story of Betty (Wells).
30. Andersen's Fairy Tales.
31. Donald and Dorothy (Dodge).
32. Lady of the Lake (Scott).
33. Merchant of Venice (Shakespeare).
34. Christmas Carol (Dickens).
35. Blue Fairy Book (Lang).
36. Huckleberry Finn (Twain).
37. Julius Cæsar (Shakespeare).
38. Man Without a Country (Hale).
39. Patty Fairfield (Wells).
40. Robin Hood (Pyle).
41. Tales from Shakespeare (Lamb).
42. What Katy Did at School (Coolidge).
43. Beautiful Joe (Saunders).
44. Gypsy Breynon (Phelps).
45. Jackanapes (Ewing).
46. Miss Lochinvar (Taggart).
47. Search for Andrew Field (Tomlinson).
48. Wonder Book (Hawthorne).

Although by no means final, data of this kind are decidedly interesting and at least an indication of what children prefer, if they haven't access to books and authors of the sensational type.

EASTER CARD NOTES.

RAPHAEL TUCK & SONS Co. have established for themselves an unassailable position in the world's market as manufacturers of artistic and appropriate missives among friends at all special seasons kept throughout the world as well as the anniversaries, memories and other occasions kept marked by souvenirs within the narrower circle of intimate friendship. The Easter collection of post-cards for 1909 comprises nearly 200 new and fascinating designs, ranging from the strictly religious to the most fantastic. A specially taking novelty is the "glistening dew" Easter card. Its peculiar effect is the result of a secret mechanical process which reproduces the realistic touch of glistening rain drops on a landscape in the sunlight after a heavy shower and the scintillations of morning dew on the flowers and grasses of the fields. The great line of mechanical Easter cards includes a wide range of novelty souvenirs. When they are opened they reveal the most surprising combinations brought about by no end of invention and highly finished execution. Enumeration of specialties is an impossibility. Twenty-odd salesmen are on the road, and it is safe to say there is not a hamlet from the Atlantic to the Pacific whose inhabitants will not admire and buy Tuck's Easter cards. The souvenirs range in price from two or three pennies to five dollars and upwards, and all offer good value.

HILLS & HAFELY Co. have upwards of 125 varieties of Easter cards for their pleasing and highly popular Empire Series, retailing at from 5 c. to 50 c. This series has attractive daintiness, the designs are original, the quotations appropriate, the printing and coloring artistic. The 10 c. line deserves highest commendation. Nearly all have four-page leaflets as inserts, with greetings and verses by well-known writers, among them "Gretchen;" and M. S. Hayward. "Gretchen" has furnished the specially beautiful ones entitled "The Message of the Bells," "Agnes Dei," "Easter Comfort for Sad Hearts," "The Resurrection Story of the Blessed Eucharist," and "An Easter Wish for an Absent Friend." The 15 c. line includes a set with cover of parchment, embellished with real flowers from the Holy Land and palm crosses. The 20 c. booklets have an envelope, and words can give the trade no idea of their general beauty and effectiveness. There are five numbers in the 25 c. offerings. One shows a bewitching arrangement of daffodils and lilies of the valley hand-painted on the parchment cover. The verses are by A. G. Fisher and "Gretchen." All the work on these cards and booklets is done by the best-known of English presses and is simply faultless. Before Easter comes St. Patrick's Day, and Hills & Hafely also offer an entirely new series of cards for friends who even in the second and third generation turn lovingly to the Green Isle. Condolence Cards, Wedding Congratulation Cards, and 40 new numbers in their Birthday Cards are also on this rich list. The Lenten season begins on February 24. For this also the preparations are tasteful and abundant.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE first number of a new quarterly, entitled Professional Memoirs, makes its appearance from the Engineer School, Washington Barracks, Engineer Bureau, United States Army, D. C., which will keep its readers in touch with the latest developments in military engineering, both at home and abroad. The first number presents a foreign view of our military establishment, a few papers on civil, military and electrical engineering, and an extract from the instructions governing student-officers at the Engineer School in their course on electrical and mechanical engineering. Papers, discussions, notes and comments are earnestly solicited from all persons connected with the work of the Engineer Bureau.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

The Literary Miscellany, winter 1908-1909, published by Frederick Fairchild Sherman, 42 West Thirty-ninth Street, New York City, contains a check list of first editions of the works of Clinton Scollard, by Kenneth MacFarland. In the same issue is also a short sketch of some "Publishers' and Printers' Works," with six illustrations. Hereafter a nominal subscription of twenty-five cents a year will be charged for The Literary Miscellany, four numbers to form a volume.

THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS has published a volume entitled "International Copyright Union, Berne Convention, 1886, Paris Convention, 1896, Berlin Convention, 1908." The volume contains the report of the delegate of the United States [Thorvald Solberg] to the International Conference for the Revision of the Berne Copyright Convention, held at Berlin, Germany, October 14 to November 14, 1908. To this is appended the text of the Convention signed at Berne, September 9, 1886; the amendments agreed to at Paris, May 4, 1896, and the Declaration of Interpretation signed at Paris May 4, 1896. There is also included a very useful Bibliography of the International Copyright Union, including (1) Berne Convention, 1886; (2) Paris Conference, 1896; (3) Berlin Conference, 1908; (4) Books and pamphlets relating to the International Copyright Union; (5) Le Droit d'Auteur—Contributions relating to the International Copyright Union, 1888-1908. The work is reprinted from 60th Congress, 2d session, House of Representatives Document No. 1208. It is furnished by the Government Printing Office, Library Division, as Copyright Office Bulletin No. 13. (70 p. 4°.)

A COMPLETE EDITION OF TOLSTOI.

A PUBLISHING house of Moscow promises a complete edition of the works of Tolstoi, numbering about 25 volumes. Hitherto a complete edition has not been possible, owing to the censorship and the difficulties in paying royalties. Under the arrangements of the publishers, royalties to the amount of $250,000 will be paid in annual instalments of $25,000. This edition is said to have the approval of Premier Stolypin.

OBITUARY NOTE.

JAMES MACARTHUR, one of the literary advisers of the publishing house of Harper & Brothers and well known as an editor, critic and playwright, died on Thursday, February 11, at the General Memorial Hospital, New York City. Mr. MacArthur was born in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1866. He came to the United States in 1888. After spending a few years in commercial life, he turned his entire attention to writing and criticism. He became connected with the publishing house of Dodd, Mead & Co. as reader and general literary adviser, and from 1894 to 1900 he was associated with Professor Harry Thurston Peck as joint editor of The Bookman. Later, Mr. MacArthur went to London as foreign representative of Doubleday, Page & Co., and on his return to this country, in 1901, he established his connection with Harper & Brothers. Mr. MacArthur was the dramatizer of Ian MacLaren's "Bonnie Brier Bush," which met with great success. He collaborated with Max Pemberton in "The Masque of the White Rose" and "Kronstadt," and with Rex Beach in the dramatization of "The Spoilers." He was a member of the Players' Club, and was widely known in literary circles in both England and America. He numbered among his intimate friends many of the most eminent writers of the day. Mr. MacArthur leaves a wife and two daughters.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE February dinner of The Booksellers' League will be held on Wednesday evening, February 17, at the Aldine Association, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York City, at 6:30 o'clock. The meeting will be a Lincoln night. The guests promised are Harry W. Knight, publisher and lecturer, whose subject will be "A Boy's Recollections of Abraham Lincoln"; Mr. Gutzon-Borglum, sculptor, on "Portraits of Abraham Lincoln"; Mr. Hamlin Garland, author of "Captain of the Gray Horse Troop." Members must notify Charles A. Burkhardt at once if they wish seats reserved. A Roiné medal of Lincoln will be a souvenir of the evening.

PERSONAL NOTES.

H. A. BEEBE, head of the stationery department of The Edward P. Judd Company, sailed for Germany, February 6, which is his third trip abroad in the interests of his firm.

J. J. ENGLISH, Jr., of the Bell Book and Stationery Co., Richmond, Va., announces the marriage of his daughter, Alice Taber, to Daniel Herbert Schweyer, of Richmond, on February 2. Mr. English has been a bookseller in Richmond for many years, and the young lady's grandfather was the J. J. English of the old firm of Randolph & English.

JOHN B. FAY, vice-president of A. C. McClurg & Co., has decided to relinquish business cares and, for a time at least, to retire from active work. A three months' vacation has been tendered him to reflect upon his final decision in the matter. Mr. Fay has been connected with A. C. McClurg & Co. for twenty-seven years. The first five were spent on the road. For twenty-two years he has had entire management and control of the wholesale stationery and fancy goods departments, and he has devoted himself to the upbuilding of this branch of one of the leading stationery houses of the world. As a buyer he grasped conditions with a master hand.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just brought out a book of counsel to candidates for the ministry, entitled "Apt and Meet," by the Rt. Rev. William F. Nichols, Bishop of California. It is a timely contribution to the important subject of supply and demand now engaging the attention of the church.

EXCELSIOR PUBLISHING HOUSE, New York, have just published "The Advance Agent," by Myles McCarthy, the actor, a very popular member of the theatrical world, and will have ready later "Bridge Whist"; a series of Calendars for 1910, with pictures, by the well-known artist, J. H. Appleton, and the annual number of the famous "Drummers' Yarns" series, due in May.

THE DALE ASSOCIATION, Boston, announces the second edition of "American Playgrounds," edited by Everett B. Mevo, published last October by the American Gymnasia Co., who made an assignment in December. The new edition of this pioneer book on national recreation will contain a comprehensive index, which will be furnished separately to the possessors of the first edition.

JOHN W. LUCE & Co. will bring out in this country an adventure story by Algernon Blackwood, entitled "John Silent." This tale, which tells of an evil spirit who brings a hideous death to all his victims, is written in truly Scottish style, in which Mr. Blackwood, who is the son of the late Sir Stevenson Blackwood, is quite at home. They are also bringing out "The Doll's House" and "Little Eyolf," the first two volumes of their edition of Ibsen.

GINN & Co. have in press two additions to the International Modern Language Series—"Elementary Reader of French History," designed to cover briefly a neglected field, and "Der Schwiegersohn," by Rudolph Baumbach. "The Integrals of Mechanics," also in press, aims to furnish the conclusion to courses in the Integral Calculus, while it provides for the beginning of Theoretical Mechanics. The author, Oliver Clarence Lester, is Professor of Physics, University of Colorado.

HARPER & BROS. have just published a new novel by Warwick Deeping, author of "Bertrand of Brittany." The story has to do with England in the stirring Cavalier and Roundhead days of Charles II. A book by the distinguished lawyer, Victor Morawetz, will be brought out by the Harpers, acting for the North American Review Publishing Company, under the title "The Banking and Currency Problem in the United States."

Various plans are discussed by the author for prevention of financial panics, and a plan is advanced for co-operation between the banks and the Treasury.

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, publishes "The Greater Love," a novel by Anna McClure Sholl, describing the struggle and development of character within a single family. It tells the story of Eleanor Valgrove's return from Paris to the town where she was born, and her brother's family, which includes all types of the bourgeois. A practical book of the month is T. W. Berry's "Profession for Girls," telling what the educated girl can do, and how to set about it. This house is also publishing new editions of Joseph Conrad's "Tales of Unrest," R. W. Chambers's "Haunts of Men," and Arthur Hayden's "Chats on English China."

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN Co. will publish a book of papers by Rolling Lynde Hartt, of The Boston Transcript, describing the audiences and spectators at public games in the cheap and free theatres, and in the amusement parks, which will be found highly amusing by those who do not frequent those pastimes. Many amusing illustrations, also by Mr. Hartt, accompany the text. They will also publish "Gambolings with Galatea," an amusing little book by Curtis Dunham, illustrated by Oliver Herford. The dramatis personæ are a goat, a dog, a bull calf, a colt, a professor, a pig, a poet, and a painter. Galatea is a pretty girl with a mischievous glance.

TENNANT & WARD are the American agents for "Penrose's Process Yearbook for 1908-9," just ready for delivery. The volume describes in detail and illustrates by example every new and practical process of reproduction introduced during the year, including the new Payne-type direct photo-engraving method, alzinography, the new lithography, grain color blocks, irregular grain processes, etc. The work is indispensable to the process worker and full of practical suggestions to all engravers and workers in the graphic arts. It is illustrated with over 200 engravings, many of them in color. The edition is limited and orders should be sent promptly.

FLEMING H. REVELL Co. will publish very shortly "Christian Science in the Light of the Holy Scripture," an exhaustive reply to Christian Science by Rev. Isaac M. Haldeman; "Life in the World," by Philip Mauro, biblical criticism from a lawyer's point of view; a story of Italy, "The Trailers," which is of especial interest as the first novel of Ruth Little Mason, daughter of the well-known novelist, Mrs. Caroline Atwater Mason; and "The Redeeming Vision," sermons and addresses by Rev. Stuart Holden, of London, whose understanding of American life has made him a favorite in this country. At the end of the month "Practical Church Music," a valuable book for choir leaders, by Dr. Edmund S. Lorenz, will appear.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce as February publications "Ireland Under English Rule," by Thomas Addis Emmet, and another historical book entitled "Historic Indiana," by Julia Henderson Levering. The latter aims to describe what is most memorable, picturesque and striking in the past and present day history of Indiana, beginning with La Salle's romantic experiences as an explorer down to the rapid social, political, educational and literary development of the State that followed the Civil War. They will also publish a new novel by John Galsworthy, entitled "Fraternity," and a volume of short stories by Miss Clara Benedict, bearing the title "A Resemblance, and Other Stories." Most of these stories have appeared in the leading magazines.

SHERMAN, FRENCH & Co. announce for early publication "The Passing of the Tariff," a timely work, well thought out, but not technical, by Raymond L. Bridgman. A decidedly novel idea is carried out by Oscar Fay Adams in "A Motley Jest," which contains two plays modelled upon Shakespeare and employing Shakespearean characters. The house will also publish in February "The Art and Science of Advertising," by George French, unlike previous books on the subject in that it considers conditions as they are, and directly helpful in its exemplification, in binding, illustration and printing of its own teachings. Early in the spring "Providence Not the Author of Our Calamities," by Rev. Charles W. Heisley, will be published. The subject is especially vital in view of the recent calamity in Italy.

MCGIRR & Co. announce that they have just published a fine enlargement of the rare and interesting contemporary photograph of The Raising of the National Flag at Independence Hall, Philadelphia, by Abraham Lincoln, February 22d, 1861. The size of the enlarged picture, which has been printed by an expert in art, is 18 x 22, and it is upon Ariosto paper, making an excellent subject for framing. The edition will be limited to the orders received, plus two copies for copyright and three reserved for private purposes, and there will be no more printed. The price per copy will be $15. In view of the present Lincoln centenary and the historic episode depicted, the picture is believed to be of a peculiar and lasting interest. The event occurred when the President-elect was on his way to his first inauguration, and at the time when he uttered the prophetic words: "But if this country cannot be saved without giving up that principle, I was about to say I would rather be assassinated upon the spot than to surrender it."

HENRY HOLT & Co. announce for issue immediately, "The Education of Women by Athletics," in which athletics is considered as a means of social education and general education for women, by Gertrude Dudley, director of the Women's Department of Physical Education in the University of Chicago, and Frances A. Kellor, author of "Experimental Sociology," "Out of Work," etc. Another interesting book to be soon published is Dr. Charles H. Sternberger's "The Life of a Fossil Hunter." The author is well known in his field and the record of his life of devotion is worthy of attention from those interested in nature and science. Mr. A. M. Hitchcock, of the Hartford (Conn.) High School, whose "Practice Book in English Composition" and the supplementary volume, "Words and Sentences," have been of the greatest help to beginners in English, now adds a third contribution to his chosen subject in his "Enlarged Practice Book of English Composition," to be published this month, and which will retain intact Part I of the "Practice Book" and in somewhat modified form the material in "Words and Sentences." There are additional chapters on more advanced subjects in rhetoric, adapting the book to use throughout the high school course. Another book is to be added to the Mathematical Series of College Text-books, issued by Holt & Co. in "Trigonometry," by Prof. A. G. Hall, of the Mathematics Department of the University of Michigan, and Prof. F. H. Frink, formerly of the University of Illinois and now a consulting engineer. A collection of "German Tales," by Dr. George M. Baker, of Yale, and made up of eight short stories by modern authors which have not yet been edited for American students of German, is also announced by these publishers.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish this month "The Churches and the Wage Earners," by C. B. Thompson, the first comprehensive account of the relations of the working classes and the religious organizations; "A Working Theology," by Alexander MacColl, a small but complete volume stating the principles of religious belief left to men today; and a new edition of Alfred Loisy's "The Gospel and the Church," with an introduction by Newman Smyth, D.D., the author of "Passing Protestantism and Coming Catholicism." In "The Butler's Story" Arthur Train gives a humorous account of a nouveau riche family, from the viewpoint of the English butler. "Semiramis, and Other Plays," by Olive Tilford Dargan, includes "The Poet," a play of especial interest at present, since it deals in an original way with the story and character of Edgar Allan Poe. A new edition of "Poe's Tales" in the Caxton Series has just been brought out in this country. "The Renaissance in Italian Art," by Selwyn Brinton, announced some time ago, is now ready, and gives in nine volumes an account of the art, (including sculpture,) of the Italian revival. A practical little treatise on violin playing has just been published in James Winram's "Violin Playing and Violin Adjustment." John Stobb's "Some Old Devon Churches, Their Rood Screens, Pulpits, Fonts, etc.," gives archæological and architectural information. "The Christian Doctrine of God" is a new book by W. N. Clarke, Professor of Theology at Colgate University and author of "An Outline of Christian Theology." Part 2 of "The Domestic Architecture of England During the Tudor Period" has just been brought out in this country. A recent publication is "The Art of the Plasterer," by George P. Bankart. An important book of the month is Professor Rudolf Eucken's "The Problem of Human Life," as viewed by the great thinkers from Plato to the present time."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers, under their own names, are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, or those advertising anonymously, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line. All objectionable books will be excluded so far as they come under our notice.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No reduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplaced advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

22 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

22 Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay" book-sellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

EXPERIENCED SALESMAN for retail department, large bookstore, Pacific Coast city; give references;
 state experience and salary expected; salesmanship, thorough knowledge of literature and good address necessary requisites. Address "PACIFIC COAST," care of PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, New York.

BOOK SALESMAN.—A first-class book salesman, with the following qualifications, desired for a retail bookstore in New York City, namely, thorough experience in the sale of standard and classic works and fine bindings; familiar as well with modern books in the many fields of reading; possessing a discerning knowledge regarding books generally, and competent to properly and accurately guide the judgment of readers in the different departments of literature.
 Only those who have a broad knowledge, and who have enjoyed a large and successful selling experience, and who possess the requirements mentioned, are desired as applicants. Parties will be good enough to furnish (in confidence) such particulars regarding age, expected remuneration and experience as will enable some judgment to be formed as to their fitness for the position in question. Apply, E. A.
 CALDERON, care of PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, New York.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Self-Help for Nervous Women

By JOHN K. MITCHELL, M.D.

This helpful little volume is among the best of new books along the line of control of mind over bodily ills. It consists of familiar talks of a direct and simple kind on the prevention and treatment of Nervous Prostration or Nervous Exhaustion, and will prove an inspiration to any one who is nervous, who apprehends nervousness, or has to do with nervous invalids.

Dr. Mitchell is well fitted for the giving of such advice, not only from long experience, but through his association for twenty-five years in practice with his father, Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, the most distinguished of American neurologists.
